

Leviathan and Interpretive Revolution: The Administrative State, the Judiciary, and the Rise of Legislative History, 1890-1950

By Nicholas R. Parrillo

NOTE ON HOW TO FIND THE DATA

The data produced for Leviathan and Interpretive Revolution are contained in a series of Excel spreadsheets. In the PDF file titled “Data Guide,” I have taken a PDF of the Article and used the Adobe Acrobat Comment function to insert a comment each time there is a quantitative assertion based on my original data. Each comment consists of a reference to an Excel spreadsheet that contains the data (sometimes with specific reference to rows, columns, or cells within the spreadsheet). Each spreadsheet is identified by two numbers joined by a hyphen (for example, SS 1-2, SS 4-1, etc.). The first of the two numbers refers to the folder in which the spreadsheet can be found below; the second identifies the spreadsheet itself. For example, SS 4-1 can be found in folder 4. For each of the Figures and Tables in the Article, the comment is pegged to the first mention of the Figure or Table in the text. For an explanation of the color coding of the spreadsheets in folders 4 and 5, see SS 4-1, Row 3. — NRP